Event:	Fairleigh Dickinson University student completes Internship with the Center for Evaluation and Counseling
Student	Courtney Soden

Executive Director, Margaret Pittaluga, MSW, LCSW, has announced that Fairleigh Dickinson University student, Courtney Soden, has completed a new webpage for the Center for Evaluation and Counseling, Inc. (CEC). The Center for Evaluation and Counseling is a non-profit agency whose mission is to heal the troubled minds, open the bruised and broken hearts, and breathe life back into the battered souls of the children and adult survivors of child abuse.

Margaret Pittaluga stated, "We really needed help with the redesign of our web site for our agency, and we are so grateful for Ms. Soden doing just that. Funds are extremely limited so having the help of future professionals is exciting and appreciated."

Ms. Soden is a junior at Fairleigh Dickinson and is studying graphic design with a concentration in web design and minors in both advertising and communication. After college she plans to work with graphic design in advertising and to continue designing websites. Ms Soden stated via e-mail "I love to learn more about my field through new experiences. I found out about the Center for Evaluation and Counseling, Inc. last year during one of my web design classes, and was later introduced to the organization through my professor Janet O'Neil, and soon after began working to redesign their website."
